

The cookie is a special data, what is sent by the visited webpage to the user's browser. It helps, that the you can browse our homepage much more easier in the future.

The webpage uses one special cookie, called „PHPSESSID”. This cookie isn't require any acceptance by the user, just helps to determine the selected language.

According to the 2003. year C. law 155.§/4/, it's only permitted to store the user's datas on any computer, after accepting the privacy statement.

According to this law, our company's webpage store the following information of the user and of his electrical device (We don't make any interest on these stored datas.):

- the user's IP address
- the type of the browser
- some details (the selected language etc.) of the used computer's operation system
- the exact date and time of the browsing
- the browsed page, function or service

The 2001. year CVIII. law 13/A.§ (3. section) is about the e-commerce services and the informational collective services, which declare, that the service provider should manage the privacy informations only for technical reasons. The service provider should manage these privacy informations only if necessary, according to the law.

If you need any further informations, regarding that, please contact us directly!